Changes proposed in Bethel sign rules

By ALISON ALOISIO
Bethel's sign ordinance may be getting some new teeth, under a proposal to be presented at a Nov. 12 public hearing.

A sign ordinance subcommittee of the 2003 Committee has been working on improving and fine-tuning the town's ordinances, according to Al Cressy, the chairman.

The proposed changes will be voted on at a special Town Meeting Dec. 3.

The current general wording about enforcement would be made very specific, if approved. "Enforcement is one of the major issues," said Cressy.

Details of the rules would vary according to whether a sign is permanent or temporary. In the case of permanent signs that do not involve a safety issue, the CEO can remove any sign in violation after 30 days, after first

Opening day — day of substance

By RANDALL PROBERT

Growing up as a young boy, and especially just prior to the opening of the annual deer hunting season, I would often dream of stalking the ever-elusive buck, the granddad of all deer. There were times when in my dreams I would do hand-to-hand combat with him, and there were other times when I would actually shoot it. But it was always to no avail. The deer always survived and ended up running off into the nearby woods.

Well this year, after thirteen years of not being able to hunt on the opening day, the same dream returns and the same elusive deer manages to escape, only to return but yet in another dream. Maybe next year, just before opening day.

So, after a very tiring night, I emerge from a ruffled, but yet warm bed, to a breakfast of bacon and eggs. Then off to the woods, only an hour early, but what the heck. Don't want anyone else to get my spot that I've been secretly scouting and planning to hunt.

After checking twice to make sure I have everything, I load my rifle and check my compass.

There's a little ground fog and I still can't see too far, but the law book clearly says that at 6:39 a.m. it is light enough to start hunting. The fog gives everything an eerie, ghostly touch. The air is warm and all is so quiet — actually too warm for favorable hunting. I wipe the sweat from my forehead and look carefully to either side. My hopes and anticipations are building. There's a visible trail through these old woodcuttings, even in this dim light. Maybe only a moose trail, but

Committee asks: Whither Greenwood?

By ALISON ALOISIO

"I'd like to talk to every individual in town and say, 'Please come to the meeting,'" said Alan Hamilton of Greenwood.

Short of that, Hamilton, who is chairman of the Greenwood Comprehensive Planning Committee, is trying to get the word out every way he can to convince townspeople to come out Nov. 13.

The purpose of the meeting, to be held at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall, is to get ideas from residents about how they want Greenwood to look in 10 years.

"We want it to be their plan," said

Hamilton. Townspeople are asked to think about two key topics before attending the meeting: 1) What do they like about Greenwood? and 2) List several of the most important issues that need to be addressed in planning for the future.

The plan will be voted on at the 2003 Town Meeting said Hamilton, and if approved, will serve as a guide for crafting ordinances.

In addition to getting input from residents, the committee will also do an inventory of town resources, including equipment and buildings, housing, natural resources, historical resources and demographic information. A total of 12 areas will be researched.

Some of the information may already be compiled, Hamilton said. For example, much of the housing information is available as a result of the recent implementa-

Residents appeal Bethel Station housing project

By MICHAEL DANIELS

More than 50 Bethel residents are appealing the town Planning Board's approval of an affordable housing project in Bethel Station.

Fifty-five residents signed the appeal, as did two nonresidents whose business, Western Maine Supply, abuts the site approved for the project.

The form asking for the appeal (it is not formally a petition) was circulated by Pat Dooen and Al Barth, a member of the town Board of Selectmen.

It cites six reasons for the appeal, most arguing the Planning Board failed to adequately examine the project and its potential impact on the town (see sidebar).

The project was approved by the Planning Board in September. It calls for building two, six-unit apartment buildings on a 137-by-419-foot parcel of land in Bethel Station.

The parcel lies between Western Maine Supply and the as-yet-unbuilt road that would connect Mechanic Street all the way through to the Parkway.

The long axis of the parcel lies along the unbuilt road, and immediately following the Planning Board approval, Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole urged the town selectmen to appeal the approval.

Cole argued that the approval would ultimately lead to the town being responsible for building out the road.

The selectmen discussed the matter at length, and their discussion also covered many other concerns cited in the residents' appeal.

But ultimately the selectmen opted not to appeal, in part, they said, because they felt that any mistakes the Planning Board might have made were not significantly serious to be grounds for a successful appeal.

But Dooen and Barth are convinced the town should push ahead with the appeal.

So, too, they say, does nearly everyone they have talked to.

Dooen notes that all the signatures were all garnered in less than a day (with the deadline for appealing looming that afternoon).

"Of all the people I approached only two refused to sign the petition," she said. "Nobody I talked to wants it here."

For herself, she said, her primary

Bond questions could have impact in our area

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel area voters going to the polls next week will find that three out of the six referendum questions could have a direct impact here in the next few years.

The Nov. 6 election includes bond issues that could mean: improvements on Routes 2 and 26; a snowmobile bridge over the Androscoggin on Route 2; a new water and sewer line from Bethel Village to Telstar; and a new branch of the University of Maine in South Paris.

Question 3 asks for $61 million for among other projects, improvements to highways and bridges.

Local projects include improvements to 4.1 miles of Route 2 in Bethel, at a cost of $2.5 million; 1.7 miles in Gilead, $2.3 million; .95 miles of Route 26 in Woodstock (the intersection with Route 232), $150,000; and 10.1 miles of Route 219 in West Paris, $4 million.

Work on the Bethel section of Route 2 would start at the western outskirts of the village and extend into West Bethel. The Gilead portion would run from the Wild River Bridge to just short of the state line.

The improvements would include widening, new ditching and new culverts where needed, according to Heath Cowan, MDT's project manager. Cowan said if portions need full construction, starting with the road's subbase, the work will be done.

Plans also include straightening some of the sharp curves around ledges on the road. Over the years, the curves have been the scene of frequent accidents, often involving 18-wheelers.

Cowan said there are longer-term design plans to rebuild the portion

YES ON BOND ISSUE 6

To the Editor:

I am writing to encourage readers to support Bond Issue 6 which includes funds for the University Center in South Paris. This is an exciting project that will greatly enhance postsecondary opportunities for residents of western Maine, including those in SAD44. While ITV and on-line classes will continue to be offered right here at Telstar, and the University Center in Mexico will continue to serve the region, the center at Oxford Hills will provide even more on-site classes from both the University of Maine system and Central Maine Technical College, as well as student advising and support. Plans also include the relocation of the Maine Department of Labor's Career Center from Norway to the University Center, which will greatly improve the transition of dislocated workers into training and educational opportunities.

The combination of University of Maine system and Technical College courses at the University Center in South Paris will provide a wide variety of courses, and will be able to make use of the fine technical facilities at Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School as well as those included in the center itself — the large, yellow building adjacent to the high school parking lot on Route 26.

The university bond issue provides an opportunity for residents of western Maine to directly benefit from the funds raised for the entire system.

I hope that readers will take the time to go to the polls on Nov. 6 and support Bond Issue 6.

A DAY FOR REFLECTION

To the Editor:

This year Veterans Day falls on a Sunday — a Holy Day — a day that is especially suitable because Americans are praying for each of our sons and daughters who have been deployed around the world to fight international terrorism. Americans are praying as a family because, in a very real sense, every soldier, sailor, marine and coastguardsman are a part of our family, the American family, and we are so proud of them.

Because of the worldwide war against terrorists, this Veterans Day is different from previous years. The events since the attack on our nation — and on world order itself — gave rise to a fresh appreciation for those in uniform. Since September, Americans young and old alike have instinctively turned to our military as the symbolic, yet also very real, source of national strength. But sometimes, even in times of national crisis, we sometimes overlook the sacrifices of those who came before us.

But even this one day of reflection means a great deal to those who have worn the uniform. This tradition began in 1991, as Armistice Day, to recognize those who died fighting in the First World War. Congress broadened the scope of recognition in 1954 to honor all veterans.

Of course, Veterans Day honors those who have served in all services — soldiers, sailors, airmen, marines and coastguardsmen — those who joined, those who were drafted, and those who became career servicemen — those who served in the front lines, the supply lines and guarding the shores back home — and yes, those serving in peacetime, projecting the mighty force of deterrence.

One may not think it would be important to rely so heavily on a day of symbolism. But, like it or not, an important part of our heritage has often involved a detached view of the military. Once a threat passes, our nation tends to take those in uniform for granted.

Peacetime — like the years between wars — has always been a time when the military suffers because of our country's non-militaristic mentality.

From the new recruits heading off to basic training, to the business owner down the street who balances civilian life with the military in the reserve components, Veterans Day helps everyone appreciate the enormous amounts of service and sacrifice being performed by folks all around them.

Veterans Day does much more than set aside one day to honor our proud veterans. Hopefully, the impact of this annual tradition helps extend the spirit on honor and gratitude throughout the year.

And with the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on our own cherished land, Americans everywhere have uncovered a great pride and faith in our nation's veterans. Because of them, we are free. With today's servicemen and women, we will remain free.

SKI-SALE THANKS

To the Editor:

Last Saturday, the Bethel Outing Club hosted another very successful ski sale. The annual event offers the community an affordable way to purchase winter sports equipment. As the club's major fundraising event, the sale serves to foster outdoor activity and in particular to support Nordic skiing in the local schools and area. The officers wish to publicly thank Gould Academy for the use of their field house, and the following individuals who gave so much time to the event: Nancy Babcock and David Walker, Fred Bailey, Dave Bean, Barbara Brooks, Jess and Sarah Carter and their friend Eric, Glen Carver, Beth Clarke, Nancy Coleman-Murphy, Beth, Jon and Laura Damon, Betsy and Dennis Doyon, Derek and Nikki Dresser, Nancy Eaton and members of the Gould Outing Club, Barbara Fiore, Buzz Gamble, Kathy Goldberg, Marguerite Graham, Rockie Graham, Margaret Haberman, Kathy Heffernan, Beth Hodgdon, Lori and Richard Hoch, Gary Inman and Lesley Rouse, Debbie Kucinkas, Cindy Makin-Brown, Rob Manning, Rudy Penczer, Betsy, Charlie, Caroline and Andrew Raymond, Nat Reade, Jim and John Reuter, Don and Marion Sandstrom, Cheryl Schattenberg, Greg Schattenberg, Eric and Lucia Schwarz, Ben Shimamura, Wendy Simpson, Les, Liz and Roger Smith, Frank Vogt, Gary and Mark Wight, and Lynne Zimmerman.

People can mark their calendars for the last Friday and Saturday of October for next year's sale, and call anyone on this list for more information about the Bethel Outing Club. We hope everyone had fun, saved or made money, and found what they were looking for.

MAINE RECYCLES WEEK COMING UP

To the Editor:

Nov. 8 to 15 has been designated Maine Recycles Week by Governor King. The Tri-Town Solid Waste and Recycling Board, representing Bethel, Hanover and Newry, is planning activities throughout the month of November.

The first event is being coordinated by the Bethel Conservation Commission. All area residents are invited to the Transfer Station/Recycling Center on Sunday, Nov. 4, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. to enjoy homemade cookies and apple cider as our thank you for the effort everyone makes to recycle. Residents can get information on what happens to the stuff brought to the center, fill out a survey, and enter a drawing for a prize.

Senior citizens are again being offered the opportunity to have their sorted recycled materials picked up by a crew of Gould Academy students. If any seniors would like to take advantage of this service, please call Bonnie Pooley at 824-2236.

We hope to see many Bethel, Hanover and Newry residents on Nov. 4.

WE CAN WORK TOGETHER ON SUNDAY RIVER

To the Editor:

There's been a lot of speculation lately about the causes of erosion in the Sunday River. It started with an article in the Oct. 8 Sun Journal titled "Report: Logging Caused Sunday River Shift" that was then picked up by other newspapers.

That presents a simplistic view of a complex issue. The author of the report discussed in the article, John Parish, a Canadian river consultant who is working on restoring several streams in Western Maine, did not pinpoint one particular cause of instability in the Sunday River. Instead, Parish said that logging may have contributed to the river's instability. Other potential causes include development, past and present land use, erratic flows and severe flood events.

The truth is that, at present, no one knows what's caused the dramatic erosion problems on the river. We can speculate all we want, but until more information is gathered, it's just guesswork. Hopefully, in the coming years, the community will begin to fill in the blanks.

In early 2001, working with a dedicated group of local citizens who represent a variety of interests and businesses, the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) put the finishing touches on a survey of the eastern part of the Sunday River Watershed. This was a very successful project; it identified many sites where erosion was taking place. Next year, we plan to complete the survey in the western part of the watershed and to begin correcting erosion problems.

There are additional efforts going on right now to gather more information, as well. We're seeking answers to questions about river flow patterns, what is the river's natural versus altered dimensions, the impact of past and present land use, and on and on. When it comes to understanding a watershed, there are no short cuts.

I enjoy working with community members. Their energy and dedication is phenomenal. But there's always room for others to join us and we welcome new volunteers. Our efforts are gaining regional attention for being on the cutting edge of river revitalization in New England.

It would be unfortunate if this positive momentum was undermined by finger pointing. No one's out to assign blame or to get anybody in trouble. At the same time, we do not want to turn a blind eye to legitimate problems. We can work together cooperatively to restore the health of the Sunday River Watershed.

CULTURAL INVENTORY SURVEYS

To the Editor:

I'm the project director for the Western Oxford Foothills cultural inventory. The deadline for filling out survey forms and returning them is Nov. 30. As an added incentive, we're raffling a Maine balsam fir pillow to anyone who returns a survey form by the deadline. At the Oxford Showcase (Oct. 19 and 20), Western Oxford Foothills raffled off a beautiful heritage-style balsam fir pillow to anyone who submitted a survey form during the show. The lucky winner was David Neufeld of North Star Garden Design and Stonework in Waterford. Anyone involved in historic preservation, a heritage business, a creative occupation or any other cultural endeavor should fill out a survey form.

Western Oxford Foothills encompasses the towns of Andover, Bethel, Brownfield, Denmark, Fryeburg, Greenwood, Harrison, Hebron, Lovell, Newry, Norway, Otisfield, Oxford, Paris, Stoneham, Stow, Sweden, Waterford, West Paris, Woodstock and Chatham, N. H. If anyone is unable to find a survey form at their local library, they can call me at 928-3712, or download a form from the Western Oxford Foothills Web site: www.westernfoothills.com.

notifying the owner of the violation and then directing him to remove it.

For temporary signs, the owner can be required to remove the sign within 12 hours of receipt of a notice of violation.

In cases in which signs — either permanent or temporary — pose a safety threat, the CEO could order them removed within two hours.

Highway signs

In response to concerns from business owners located off main highways, the committee is proposing the size of business directional signs be determined by the speed limit on the highway.

Some businesses have complained in the past that the signs allowed under the current ordinance are too small to read at 50 mph.

Currently, sign slats may not be more than two inches wide. Under the new proposal, the size may range up to four and one-half inches on highways with speed limits of 40 mph and above.

Temporary signs

Other proposed changes would clarify rules regarding the permitting of temporary signs, and would for the first time address special events signs. Some signs would require permits, while others would not.

Under the proposal, a permit would be required for: off-premise real estate signs, development signs, and special-event signs for both business promotions and general town events.

Temporary signs that would not require a permit would include on-premise real estate signs, contractor/engineer/architect signs, political and campaign signs; special-events signs such as yard sales, seasonal agricultural on-premise signs, holiday/seasonal decorations; and land use (such as "No trespassing") signs.

Other changes are intended,

Cressy said, to streamline the sign-permitting process by dividing responsibility between the CEO and the Planning Board.

Many of the remaining proposed changes are simply housekeeping, Cressy said.

The sign subcommittee may make further changes following the hearing, and the proposal will also be reviewed by the Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen before going on the warrant.

The review of the sign ordinances was prompted by complaints at the 2000 annual Town Meeting about the restrictions on business signs. An article was presented at that meeting to eliminate sections of the sign ordinance. It was defeated, but town officials said then the ordinance would be re-examined.

The Nov. 12 hearing will take place at the Crescent Park Elementary School, beginning at 7 p.m.

Copies of the proposed changes are available at the Town Office.

Appeals

reason for opposing the project was financial — placing housing units in Bethel Station would be a waste of prime commercial space, space that could eventually generate tax revenues for the town.

Barth said he opposed the plan because he believed it was an unnecessary waste of taxpayer dollars.

"Fundamentally, Community

Concepts has shown no need whatsoever for this in Bethel," he said. What data the developers did produce, he claimed, was outdated and not specific to Bethel.

"This is not the kind of housing we need. If anything, we need winter housing for workers. — and this isn't it."

Barth also worried that rather than benefiting Bethel residents, the project would attract people from out of town — leading to increased taxes for schools and other services.

The Bethel Board of Appeals is expected to take up the appeal at a meeting scheduled for Nov. 20. At the same meeting, the board will be considering the appeal of the Angeline Park swimming pool.

tion of the enhanced 911 program.

Hamilton said the town has records showing that an inventory was conducted in 1989, but a comprehensive plan was never voted on. In 1996, the town was awarded a grant from the state for a plan, but it was not completed either, and the money was returned to the state.

"We have the money now, and I don't want to send it back," said Hamilton. The committee has a total of about $17,000 — $13,000 from the state and $4,500 raised by the town.

The Nov. 13 meeting will be facilitated by John Maloney of the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments. The committee will also hold regular meetings on Nov. 5 at 6 p.m. and Nov. 19 at 7 p.m.

Andover approves articles

ANDOVER—At a special Town Meeting Tuesday, Andover voters approved all four articles on the warrant, according to secretary Joan Carney. Articles to purchase a used pumper fire truck, give the old pumper truck to the Andover Firemen's Association, implement a Barking Dog ordinance and change the annual Town Meeting to the third Saturday in March all passed easily, Carney said. About 60 people attended the meeting.

Grange Hall fees and rules set

NEWRY—Selectmen Tuesday approved a rental fee schedule and rules for using the town's Grange Hall. In summer months, taxpayers will pay $50 to use either the upstairs or the downstairs parts of the hall, while nontaxpayers will pay $100. In the winter, the fees will be $75 and $150, respectively. Users must also sign a paper stating there will be no alcoholic beverages on the premises, no smoking in the building and no food or drink on the second floor. Renters will pay for any damages. More information is available at the Town Office.

Hanover moves into Town Office

HANOVER—Selectmen met for the first time Monday in the new Hanover Town Office on Ferry Road. The building is a former single-family home and was given to the town by the Mead Corp. It has been under renovation in recent months, with Town Clerk Clem Worcester and his brother, David, doing much of the work. For the first time in Hanover history, all town records are now stored under one roof.

Unemployment up

RUMFORD—The jobless rate for the Rumford area increased from 6.3 percent in August to 7.0 percent in September, according to the Maine Department of Labor. A continuing economic downturn was largely attributed to the national economic slowdown, more layoffs and the end of the summer tourist season, according to economic analyst Gerard Dennis of the Maine Department of Labor. The September numbers don't reflect the impact of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, he said, because data is gathered for the week including the 12th of each month. Dennis said the short-term prospects for the local economy do not look good for the next nine months. He said, however, that long-term prospects for late 2002 and beyond are very good, citing projects and expansions planned into 2003. Seasonal layoffs in September were reported in wood products manufacturing, hotels, motels, summer camps and paper manufacturing.

THS athletes on MVC teams

BETHEL—Three members of the Telstar High School varsity field hockey team have been named to the Mountain Valley Conference All-Conference first team. Katie Wight (midfielder), Nikki Roberts (forward) and Mariah Seames (midfielder), are all seniors. Senior Kaleb Durgin, a fullback, was named to the MVC All-Conference first team for soccer.

Grover employee elected

BETHEL—David Hanscom was recently elected as secretary for the American Society for Quality, in the Pine Tree State Section. Hanscom is a quality inspector in the West Bethel facility of Grover Gundrilling. The company received notification of his election from David Smith, section chairman. "He has consistently shown initiative in gaining education in the field of quality assurance," said Jessica Grover of GG.

Tire disposal a problem

LIVERMORE—After failing to get an estimated 3,000 tires removed from a property in Livermore, selectmen are now considering what to do next. Code Enforcement Officer Richard Marble worked for several months last year to have the tires removed from the property of Scott Bonnevie. Bonnevie was ordered to pay a fine of $11,900, but last May selectmen reduced it to cover the town's expenses, plus $395, because Bonnevie appeared to be making efforts to remove the tires. But in October, the tires, which at one time had been loaded onto a tractor-trailer, reappeared on the site. Selectmen may now take legal action.

East is traveling skiers' choice

NEW YORK—U.S. ski resorts in far-flung locations, including some of those known for attracting the rich and famous, such as Park City and Vail, are set to face one of their worst holiday seasons in recent memory. Skiers from East Coast cities such as New York and Washington, anxious to avoid flying in the aftermath of the Sept. 11 attacks, are opting to drive to accessible resorts in New England, pulling dollars away from many of their high-altitude competitors in the West. Analysts said that as a result, they expect earnings to be hit at Vail Resorts Inc., Intrawest, and the American Skiing Co., with reservations down between 20 and 40 percent at many resorts compared to a year ago. "Sept. 11 had a catastrophic effect. We will be down 30 percent at Christmas, 99 percent of that can be attributed to Sept. 11," said Shawn Stinson, communications director for Park City's Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, which represents Utah ski resorts Park City, The Canyons and Deer Valley. The more remote resorts may be losing the battle to resorts closer to population centers, say industry analysts. Snow—particularly last winter's snow—plays its part, too. "The Northeast having had a good snow last year," is partly responsible for the rise in New England books, said Michelle Russo, an analyst at Deutsche Bank. But while wealthy East Coasters may not be getting on planes, many are still eager to spend their skiing dollars. "We have seen a sharp increase in the dollar value of reservations, and they are in the drive market. People are spending $8,000 on a visit," said Valerie Rochon, executive director of the Stowe (Vt.) Area Association.

Electricity guide available

AUGUSTA—The Public Advocate has recently published the fifth edition of the Electricity Shopping Guide, a free six-page booklet that: 1) lists the recently approved "standard offer" supply rates for residential consumers of electricity in Maine that will go into effect in March, 2) describes the likely total rate that will be in effect at that time, compared to past and current rates, and 3) answers some common questions about electrical utility service in the state. The Advocate's Office said there is still little shopping available to residential customers, however, because the changes in the electricity industry are relatively new, "and we have a way to go to reach the level of competition present in long-distance services."

Hiker gets "Triple Crown"

APPALACHIAN TRAIL—For 10 months, he started walking at sunup and didn't stop until nightfall. On Saturday, Brian Robinson became the first person to hike the summit of each of the three U.S. National Scenic Trails in a calendar year when he reached Mt. Katahdin. He averaged about 30 miles a day since setting out Jan. 1, destined to complete the Pacific Crest Trail in the West, the Continental Divide Trail in the Rockies, and the Appalachian. Tackling hiking's "Triple Crown,"—7,400 miles through 22 states—took Robinson through hip-deep snow, scorching heat and more than a million feet of upward climb. To save time, he ate while he walked: Snickers bars, peanut butter, anything calorie-rich. He did not shed a pound from his 6-foot, 1-inch, 155-pound frame. Seven pairs of running shoes later, he looked no worse for the wear, save a bushy black beard he last trimmed in April. What nearly got him, he said, was the isolation. Since he never slowed down and barely stopped, no one could keep up long enough to make good company. Only two dozen people have achieved the Triple Crown in their lifetimes. Robinson, 40, of San Jose, Calif., is on a leave of absence from his job as a systems engineer for Compaq.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Bird healthy enough to elude ACO

Wednesday, Oct. 24

At noon on Oct. 24 the animal control officer received a call about a sick sea gull on High Street. The ACO checked the bird, and each time he got close to it, it flew off. The ACO received three more calls throughout the day, but no further action was taken.

Sunday, Oct. 28

At 8:30 a.m. police received a report of a dog running at large on the Songo Pond Road. The complainant said the dog had accosted her at her mailbox by growling and showing its teeth. Larry Ward, Sr., 40, was charged with having a dog at large, keeping a dangerous dog and cruelty to animals.

Tuesday, Oct. 30

At 7:45 a.m. police issued a juvenile subject on Church Street a written warning for violation of the town ordinance on skateboards (riding on a prohibited roadway).

CHARLIE PREPARES CHRISTMAS TREE FOR AN ANGEL

Telstar Middle School seventh-graders and several community volunteers, including members of the Bethel Rotary Club, collaborated this week on a community service project at the "Kids for Trees" site in Bethel. The volunteers pruned the trees, cut down brush and generally cleaned up the area, located on the Chadbourne property on Route 26. Here, Charlie Rice — standing on Steve Wight's shoulders — prunes the top of a tree. SAD44 third graders planted the Christmas trees each year during the early 1990s, under the tutelage of Jim Chandler. As the trees matured, they were sold at Christmas time, beginning in 1997. The proceeds benefit Project Graduation for the senior class at Telstar High School. Trees for the Class of 2002 are expected to go on sale in early December.

Bond questions

of Route 2 between the two sections covered under the referendum question.

Improvements to the Route 2 bridge over the Androscoggin are also included under Question 3, at a cost of $500,000. The work would allow for safer passage by snowmobiles, cyclists and pedestrians.

The current bridge has long been a concern, especially for snowmobiles, because it provides little space between vehicle traffic and the edge of the bridge.

The bond issue, if approved, would also leverage a total of $120 million in federal funds.

Water for Telstar

Question 4 asks for $15 million for the state's School Revolving Renovation Fund, to provide loans for repairs and improvements in public school facilities, to address health, safety and compliance deficiencies, general renovation needs and learning space upgrades.

SAD44 is currently applying to that fund for aid to extend water and sewer lines to the Telstar complex. The school has had problems recently because its wells do not draw enough water. Drilling a new well has been studied, but does not appear to be a promising option, according to district officials.

Question 6 asks for $36.7 for improvements to the state's public universities and other learning centers.

Included would be $1.8 million to renovate the Agricultural Expo building in South Paris, next to Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School, and to transform it into the Western Maine University and Technical College Center.

The center would provide technical and college degree courses locally to Oxford County. The courses would be provided at technical-college tuition rates.

Cathy Newell, director of Adult Education for SAD44, said she is "totally in favor" of the proposal. "It would enhance the post-secondary opportunities for people from here," she said. SAD44 currently offers college courses both through ITV and on-line, and those would continue if the South Paris center is built, she said.

There is a university center in Rumford/Mexico that offers about a dozen courses, Newell said, and WMU would likely offer at least that number.

In addition to classes, WMU would be the location of a Department of Labor career center, which would serve dislocated workers and smooth their transition into training programs, according to Newell.

MDOT sets meeting on Route 2 problems

By ALISON ALOISIO

If you've had a close call on Route 2's sharp curves west of Bethel, the Maine Department of Transportation wants to hear about it.

Tuesday evening (election night), MDOT will hold a meeting to receive public input on the Route 2 improvement projects included in referendum question 3.

Heath Cowan, project manager, said his department wants to hear from local residents and people who live along Route 2, because "they know the road better than anybody."

Cowan said MDOT has statistics on accidents, but he is interested in hearing about situations that don't make the accident reports. That includes "near misses," as well as information about drainage problems along the road.

The information would be used in planning the road improvements, if the bond issue is approved. Cowan said MDOT would hold further public meetings to get reaction to the plans as they progress. He said work is scheduled to begin in April of 2003.

The meeting will take place at the Crescent Park Elementary School, beginning at 7 p.m.

CORRECTION Crash was on Bartlett property. An article in last week's Citizen about the 1960 USAF plane crash in Newry should have said the plane came down on land owned at the time by Charles Bartlett. A piece of the plane also landed in a small pond owned by Bartlett.

MAINE MILITIA PUBLIC MEETING

There will be a general informational meeting on November 15 at 7pm on Knights Hill Road in Sweden. This is open to the public to explain the reason for our state militia and its legality. If interested in joining or just interested in learning, please come!

Call 647-5061 to get directions and give number of people attending or call 338-1352 with questions about the state militia.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston

There are many changes going on in Bethel. The winds have blown the beautiful foliage to carpets in our front yards. Driving over Bridge Street, the building across from Rite Aid (formerly Maine Market) has been moved back on to a new foundation, with much room out front. As we go over to the North Road, the many pine trees along the airport side of the road have been cut and construction on the airfield is underway. Back in town, the new science building at Gould Academy is huge and growing every day. It takes the place of the old Brick Grammar School. On the way down Mill Hill, the new Bethel Inn condos are taking shape.

Jonathan and Kathy Goldberg and daughters are going through construction of raising the roof on their home on Vernon Street, the old Dan Spearin place. In the meantime, during the summer months they have lived in a large tent in their yard. A wonderful experience.

Town Manager Scott Cole's parents are having a new home built on the Keith Davis (formerly Harold Conner) lot on the Grover Hill Road.

Murray "Mike" Thurston has returned home on Wednesday after having surgery at Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. He is recovering very well.

Donald and Vera Cressy of Concord, N.H., are visiting a few days this week with their son, Al and Jackie Cressy.

Bernice Brown of Rumford and Betty Farrar of Auburn visited Bea Brown on Wednesday for lunch and returned on Sunday to visit.

Linda Foster and friend of Pittsfield, Mass., visited her mother, Bea Brown, Friday through Monday.

Sharon Kaiser of Keene, N.H., visited her parents, Dot and Garey York, Tuesday through Sunday.

Martha Bangs of Dresden spent several days this week with Bob and Ginny Keniston.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP VISITS BETHEL HOUSE CHURCH.

On Sunday, Oct. 21, the Rt. Rev. Chilton Knudsen (standing third from right) visited the Episcopal House Church, held at the home of Pat and Henry Stewart on Indian Pond in Greenwood. A group of about 25 people from Bethel and surrounding towns participated in a service, including prayers, reading and discussion of the lessons for the day and Holy Communion. The bishop officiated and the Rev. Gwyneth Bohr assisted in the service. The Rev. Ann Stanley of Christ Church, Norway, also joined the group. Following the service, the worshippers enjoyed fellowship and a potluck supper. The Episcopal House Church usually meets at 4 p.m. on the third Sunday of each month at the home of Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr, Chapman Street, Bethel.

On that note, I will end. Have a good week, wear lots of orange and if you're hunting, good luck.

Mason Township

by Richard Grover

While my daughter, Anita, and her husband, Dan, were here the third week in October, we went on several hikes, of various difficulty and distances. One of these was a five-mile loop, beginning at home, leading up our road to the end, past the llama ranch, down through the woods to the Haystack Notch trail, following that trail downstream to the road on the other side of Pleasant River and then down the road to Aylward's field, directly across the river from home. Then, you have to either ford the stream, or follow the road another mile to cross a bridge and back up another mile on this side of the river.

Anita and Dan opted to ford the stream and come up the hill directly home. Mona and I went downstream to "The Falls" and crossed there, where we could step across the narrow channel through the ledge.

When Mona and I got home, we could hear some sort of commotion down in Jelly's pasture. Now, his pasture is kind of a hodgepodge of fences, since it grew from a small enclosure by the garden to a larger one encompassing the pond (for water), to a larger one still, including the remainder of the small field and some woods. I never took down any of the fences, merely adding gates whenever I enclosed a new area, giving Jelly run of the entire area. Anita and Dan intended to go around the pasture to avoid contending with Jelly. However, when they came up the hill from the river, they saw Jelly in the pasture by the garden and a gate through a part of the pasture separated from Jelly by a fence, they thought. They came through the gate and started through the "separated" pasture, safe from Jelly. Then Jelly saw them and came galloping through a gate they hadn't noticed into their area.

Now, Jelly didn't have a mean bone in his body, but he was pretty big and pretty frisky, kicking up his heels and tossing his head from side to side, ominously from Anita and Dan's point of view. They took turns distracting Jelly, giving each

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham

The Valley is a little bit lighter tonight—about two tons or more. Doug Bennett was by and drained Ralph's and my septic systems. It was time. I had never watched the process before. It was interesting. I was amazed at how quickly it works. Now that I've watched it once, I'm ready to wait another eight years before it is done again. Tasha, not knowing what was happening but hearing and seeing that big truck had a very worried look on her face and managed to engage in a great deal of whining.

Have finally been making my way back to working out. I feel so much better when I do that, even though I get a good workout stacking wood. It is definitely not the same. It is a great way to build up strength, not to mention muscle tone. The company early in the morning is always a hoot, also.

For those of you who are asking, the Ford Explorer is not my new car. It belongs to John and Lynn. My Vista is still in the shop. By the time you read this, it will be home. In the meantime, I have been borrowing the Explorer and waiting impatiently for my Vista to be back. It is more my size.

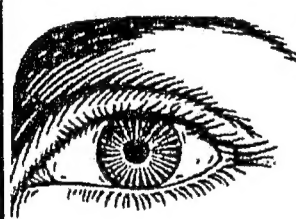

This cold weather has meant more fires. I'm glad Don came by several weeks ago and cleaned my chimney so I don't have to worry. I usually wait until November before starting anything more than a smudge fire. Maybe that means I'm becoming a wimp. I think it's just been cold.

It's time for hunter orange, again. Although I admit I miss the freedom to walk in the woods, I actually enjoy wearing orange. Tasha has been cooperative about it, too.

She has an orange cover for her collar and I found a hunting vest. I am not sure, but an old roommate may have left it. At first I thought it was Rudee's, but I'm pretty sure she destroyed hers. In any case, now no one can mistake Tasha for a deer, even if she gets free, which she occasionally does.

On my way home from buying several new mouse traps (the hinges seemed to break on my old ones), I found a mouse that donated itself to the cause. Not having children, I do not leave the lid shut on the toilet, and somehow it managed to get in the toilet bowl. It now resides in the woods across the street, like all good mouse carcasses.

To get on to more pleasant subjects, have been writing and typing poems lately. Some are quite good; others need work. It is great to have the time to write. I also realized that even bad experiences are great fodder for poems. Of course sometimes the subjects of my poems would rather not be written about, but as they are more universal once set to verse, it is hard to positively identify the specific subject or person by name. That is the great thing about poetry, one can be obscure when one wants to be.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

All the books and talk shows addressing the subjects of mid-life and women seem to agree that it is a wonderful time in the lives of most women.

According to the so-called "experts" on the subject, because middle-aged women no longer have the responsibility of raising a family or seeking a mate and they have probably been in the work place for a number of years, they have gained freedom, confidence and wisdom.

As a middle-aged woman I think there is a certain amount of truth in that. I know that now that the growth of hair on my legs has slowed down I have more freedom to take care of my newly acquired mustache.

I have gained the confidence to go for a mammogram and know that it is the only time anyone will ever ask me to appear topless on film.

I have gained the wisdom of knowing that life throws us a lot of curves and I am sitting on most of mine.

The "experts" say that mid-life is a time when women become more reflective and ponder some of the big questions. What is the meaning of life? Why am I here? What does it all mean? My big question is, how much Healthy Choice ice cream can I eat before it is no longer a healthy choice?

The "experts" say that in middle age women wake up in the morning with a much more optimistic attitude than their younger selves did.

I think this is so true. I can remember my younger self waking up and not really wanting to face the new day. I would fret about getting the kids up, dressed, fed and to school on time. I would worry about finishing whatever project was left undone the night before, usually something one of the kids needed for school. I would not look forward to rushing around to get everything done and starting my workday all frazzled and exhausted.

Now I do wake up feeling a lot more optimistic. I feel optimistic that the stiffness and kinks in my body will go away eventually. I'm optimistic that I will make it to the bathroom on time. I'm very optimistic that I will find where I put my glasses the night before.

The "experts" say midlife is a time when women become more reflective and ponder some of the big questions.

The "experts" do acknowledge that the middle-aged woman's body does go through a lot of changes. They admit there will be aches and pains and muscle tone will diminish. Diminish is a pretty mild term. My muscle tone had diminished to the point where I no longer have upper arms. I have wingspans. When I wear a sleeveless dress I look like a flying squirrel in drag.

There has been so much diminishing of my muscle tone going on that I can now stand naked in front of the mirror and see my butt without turning around.

Whenever I see some sweet, lovely, firm young lady in a tube top or tight sweater I feel like screaming at her and saying "Listen honey, even the Roman Empire fell and those will too!" Diminish in deed.

Of course, I don't say anything. That would be cruel and it would only be envy talking and envy is not good. And I can take some solace in knowing that at one time in my life I was quite well sculptured. I looked like I had a "Body by Jake." Now I look like I have "Legs by Rand McNally." I have more red and

It's actually good that I can remember a time when I was firm because the other down side of middle age that the "experts" admit to is failing memory.

I find it so frustrating when names of people I know fairly well are completely erased from my memory bank. I have reached the point in my life when I have to write everything down. My refrigerator, desk at work, even my purse is covered with post-it notes. It's gotten so bad that the only thing I seem to be able to retain is water.

On the plus side of things, besides my dress size, is that I don't let things bother me anymore. I think that acceptance is one of the positive things about middle age. I used to worry about what people thought of me. Now I figure if they're thinking about me at all that's pretty good.

Now I can go out and really enjoy myself. I don't have to worry about a babysitter and how the kids are going. Though I make an effort to be neat and clean, I really don't get very concerned if I don't look like a million bucks. I no longer worry about whether I've said the right thing to the right people. With this kind of freedom I can be the life of the party, at least until about 8 p.m. when it's time for me to go to bed.

I think that middle age has brought with it an appreciation of what is important. I know the breasts will sag, the hips will expand and my chin will double, maybe even triple, but the love and joy I have experienced over the years have made it all worth it.

And the way I see it, my body simply had to expand to hold all of the freedom, confidence and wisdom that the "experts" say I have gained in middle age.

Gilead

by Elise Caswell

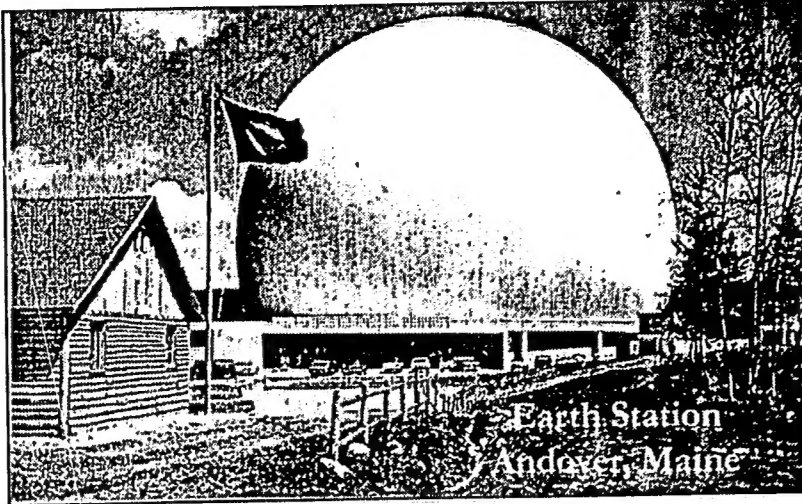

It's Sunday and we are all busy doing the last of the fall chores putting to rest the Summer of 2001. The patio furniture is put away along with the warm weather toys like masks and snorkels, golf clubs and boogie boards. My heart is lighter as this annual ritual has been enriched by having already experienced one wonderful, white winter here in Maine.

Last year at this time we were just arriving in Gilead to start up a whole new life. Moving a household out of a lifetime of familiarity and into a whole new state is dizzying — frantic with chores and tying up of loose ends. I imagine it's a bit like shooting the rapids. Once you get yourself positioned to go, you just have to let go and trust while working madly to steer clear of obstacles and rocks that can hang you up or put you out completely. We were so busy simply arriving, that much of the preparing for winter went undone. Take the wood for instance. By the time we got around to buying wood for the woodstove, most options for dry, split wood were gone. We ended up getting log length and my husband worked on cutting and splitting all winter long. The boys and I hauled wood from the garage to the porch all winter as well, because we burned as fast as he provided the split wood. This year, we have a nice supply put up and every fire isn't dependent on cutting and splitting.

The garden has had its first year of existence, too. It's a big job to launch a garden for the first time. I have never had more than about ten square feet of total garden space, and this year my husband, Stephen, had a new tiller. His old tiller was connected to his sailboat — perhaps that has something to do with how he got carried away tilling up a garden that makes a footprint bigger than any house we ever lived in, in Massachusetts. Standing in the space that was to become our vegetable garden was overwhelming, especially when I started to shake sod one tiny handful at a time. Thank goodness Richard Dupleppis stopped by one evening to help raise a garage wall with Stephen. He told me the secret of the black landscapers' plastic and how I shouldn't even try to plant the whole space the very first year. I bought some huge pieces and spread it out so it could kill the grass for next year. What a relief to discover that I didn't need to do it all by hand this first year living in Maine. As it was, my peripheral garden produced enough squash to disturb my sleep, zucchinis and summer squash haunted my dreams, and thank goodness I have neighbors that enjoy the summer vegetables, too. I could have never dealt with all that squash by myself. I managed to yield a couple of huge pumpkins that were the success of my beginner's attempts to grow our family's food. Maybe next year I'll get to plant the center. This year, the best I can do is truck in some horse manure to winter over feeding the soil for next year's garden. I'm aiming for diversity next year.

As preparations for winter are made, my heart fills with gladness. I love the snow. I love the family talks beside the woodstove and the clear, fresh air. I love holing up knowing I can live off my fat for the winter and that my cupboards are full of applesauce made from the trees right here in the field. Last night, my oldest son was at a gathering of friends. He called us at 2 a.m. I never would have called my folks at that hour. They would have been upset for interrupting their sleep or they would have feared for someone's life — only disaster calls at 2 a.m. I love that he called. He wanted us to know that there was a display of Aurora Borealis. Stephen and I bundled up and went outside to check it out. The northern and eastern sky shimmered with scarlet light. Occasional fingers of white light shot up through the scarlet, as the heavens appeared to be rolling out the red carpet for our second winter in Maine. Personally, I hope it's a snowy one.

HISTORICAL MAGNETS
The Andover Historical Society is selling magnets featuring well-known town scenes. Most of the magnets have been made from old postcards. Scenes include the Earth Station from the 1960s, the Lovejoy Covered Bridge, the town common, the Elm Street School and the Town Hall curtain. Individual magnets are $2 each, while the set is available for $8. Proceeds benefit the society.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

It was a historic happening. For the first time ever, Hanover made the pages of Down East Magazine. Our moment of fame came in a brief article about the Hanover Post Office situation. Look for it on page 12 of the November issue.

The new Hanover Town Office is now open for business. The town clerk's office moved in last Tuesday. Citizens are invited to stop by and check it out. Contained on the first floor of the 21 Ferry Road building are the clerk's office, community room, the world meeting room, selectmen's office and a convenient restroom. The telephone number for the office is 364-8200. The clerk's office is open on Monday, 9 to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, 9 to 5 p.m.; Thursday, 9 to 9 p.m. and Friday, noon to 4 p.m.

Dog licenses for 2002 are now available at the Hanover Town Office. Be sure to bring your dog's up-to-date rabies certificate issued by a Maine veterinarian, along with the spay/neuter certificate if applicable. A late fee is applied after Jan. 31.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Call to worship at the Newry Community Church was held Sunday morning, Oct. 21, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. Prelude by Jay Hanscom. The message of the day was "One Day" from Isaiah 32:18.

"And one day, my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwelling and in a quiet resting place." There was a special by Gil Seeley on the Bible. She called it "The Manual of Discipline." A prayer followed, hymns, benediction and postlude. Amen. After the service, a birthday party for Gil on her 94th was enjoyed with cake, candles, cookies, etc., cards and gifts, given by Rodney and Kathy, Nancy, Sylvia and Bill, Owen and Sue, Sue Bowe, Kelsie and Jay. Thank you all and may God bless you. Seneca Corniveau was also there.

Karlene Bachelder, Sylvia Grant, Loretta Berry, Sylvia Harrington, Betsy Clark and Bea Lowell gave Gil another birthday party on Wednesday. Doris Parent wanted to join them, but couldn't make it. Lots of love, gifts, cards and good wishes, coffee, cake and ice cream. "Friendship is the wine of life." I want to thank everyone, relatives and friends, who sent me cards and gifts by mail and phoned wishing me the best. God bless you all. "This week, it's all about me." Ha.

Jason and Retta Berry hosted a surprise Birthday Party/Cookout for Sarah Buxton at the home of John and Nancy Wight. The Newry Mothers Club wishes to thank everyone who helped make the Halloween Party a big success. A special thank you to our judges, Emily Beers, Paula Wheeler and Peggy and Steve Wight. The winners for best costumes were: Zachary Wheeler, the scariest (Dracula); Kaiya Corniveau, the cutest (lion); Travis Wheeler, the funniest (Batman); Vicki Lowell, most original (gypsy). Congratulations to everyone.

The next Mothers Club meeting will be Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Newry Town Office.

There will be a Rabies Clinic on Saturday, Nov. 17 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Andover Fire Station. Rabies shots will cost $9 per shot.

On Dec. 8, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., there will be a Craft Fair at the Andover Fire Station. Now is the time to rent your table. December will be here before you know it.

Don't forget to vote on Nov. 6 — usual voting hours at the Town Hall.

It's sad when you lose choices, and the "powers that be" have decided that all sixth-graders in Andover must now be bused to Bethel. I was very disappointed with the School Board's decision. It seemed at the meeting that the board members had already made up their minds before they even listened to what the concerned citizens of Andover had to say about the matter. As far as I'm concerned, I'm issuing a warning to all parents of the fourth grade at AES. The mind turning will begin there now that the fifth grade has been brain washed into how wonderful it is to get up at 5 a.m. to take a wonderful 45-minute bus ride to go to the wonderful new school in Bethel. Before we know it there will not be a grammar school in Andover at

SHE CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE, BUT SHE CAN'T BE YOUR NEIGHBOR.

She is a certified nurse's assistant at an assisted-care living facility, in one of Maine's more affluent communities. She loves her job. She loves the people she helps. But what she could do without is the hour-long commute to and from work each day. Diversity within Maine's communities is key to their continued growth and vitality. When a segment of the population is forced to live elsewhere, the community ultimately suffers. Businesses can't find the employees they need to expand, community-based volunteer services disappear, and the community that was once so desirable isn't anymore.

In Maine, the ability of your community to provide safe, decent and affordable housing is critical to its success. If you'd like to see your community do more, call the Maine State Housing Authority for more information at 800-452-4668.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

On Oct. 29, we were greeted with the first deep killing frost. The temperature was in the low 20s. The ground became frozen overnight, the frost covered fields and roofs. The lake had its first skim of ice in place. There will be no more days with the door open to let the lovely fall breezes drift through the house. We now must wear a jacket or heavy sweater to run out to the mailbox. The house is cozy. More books are read. Mail-order catalogs arrive daily in anticipation of Christmas.

Daylight Savings time ended Saturday night so we all had an extra sleep, but now we seem to wake up an hour earlier. The changing of the seasons in New England is part of, "it's a great place to live." You are always in anticipation of just what is going to happen next. We get "cabin fever" every so often, but "boredom" is not in our vocabulary.

Deer hunting season opened on Saturday, Oct. 27 for residents, only. I didn't hear any gunshots, but the guys in orange were out there doing their "thing." Monday morning nonresidents arrived. Matt and Dan Corcoran and Paul Dinino always arrive for the first day. They are all longtime visitors to Upton, owning a farm on Brooks Hill (the old Lane farm).

The Planning Board met Saturday and two permits were issued. The School Board met on Tuesday,

DRESSED FOR THE DAY
Many people in area organizations, businesses and schools observed Halloween Wednesday by dressing in costume. Oct. 30, at the Town Office.

We didn't have too many Halloween trick or treaters, but then again we don't have too many children. What shall we do with all that leftover candy? We don't have to worry because it will all be devoured before we make up our minds.

Simonne Lavallee has a new well. Her well went dry two months ago in the drought. Do not go to visit her because now that water isn't rationed, fall cleaning will begin and Simonne will be on "full speed ahead."

Each year in late October we are visited by a cardinal. This year, a male and female are in the area. We had them over the weekend at our feeder. Ginny Williamson had a female cardinal at her feeder Sunday. The three Canada jays are regular visitors. They clean out the peanut log in less time than it takes to fill it. The blue jays and the Canada jays can clean up a loaf of stale bread in about ten minutes flat.

I am again reading "Happy the Land" by Louise D. Rich. There is such a familiarity of the area in the book that it makes you realize that some things have changed, but not everything. I don't read many books twice, but there are some which come to mind that can be read any number of times. "Gone with the Wind," "Thorn Birds," "We took to the Woods" and "Little Women" come to mind.

Visiting in town this weekend were Barbara and Ed Rusezyk from Harpswell, Carolyn and Carl Taylor from Portland. It was cold, wet and windy on Saturday and they vacated the town as soon as they could. May and Nelson Hood left for Florida last week (smart move).

We have such a variety of birds at the feeder this week that it's hard to select the "Bird of the Week." Pick your own. Try the "blue-footed booby"; that's an interesting one. We have the "orange-coated" ones, but they don't have blue feet. You may observe them wandering around the woods or "road hunting" with dejected facial expressions. We do not have a deer registration station in Upton, which makes it very difficult if you happen to bag your deer here. Hunters must travel to Andover or Newry to check their deer in. We are also deprived of big-time gossip about who got a deer and who got the biggest deer. I don't like that. I have "nose trouble."

Mountains of Maine are significant compared to the Alps or Andes. I think we must get used to the mountains or become acquainted with them if we want to know them. It is hard at first for the eyes to accept them looming solid and massive where there should be sky. Some find mountains oppressive. They feel shut in and crushed among them. I don't. I have always liked them. I look at them the first thing in the morning to see how they weathered the night. I check at night to see their mood. Sometimes they seem very near; then again they withdraw to the far distance. They may be black and brooding, plus other forms.

In autumn they are gay and light-hearted in their flaming shawls. Now I'm sad their robes are gone for the winter. I am happy to be able to go back to church. It had been a long time that I had stayed at home. Last week, I had several callers that I enjoyed. The Holt "kids" came one afternoon, Robert, Ann and David. We lived again our days together on the farm. What fun we used to have.

Tommy Poland recently had gall bladder surgery at Stephens Memorial Hospital and is now home and on the mend.

Richard Wing has had a couple days off from work at MDOT in Bethel.

Joan Poland made Tommy a loaf of dill bread and also made me a loaf. It was very, very good. I used to make it but hadn't done it for ages.

There's a one-legged bird that comes to our feeders daily. I've seen him there most of the late summer and fall.

I've had my flu shot, have you had yours?

Alicia Miclon is now at home with her mobile home on Curtis Hill Road.

Brandy Poland also has a mobile home here on Curtis Hill. The hill is getting real populated; other places are also being built or moved into recently. We welcome them all as neighbors.

Larry Billings, curator of Woodstock Historical Society, reports that he has given a nice piece of carnival glass to the museum. The museum has a fine collection of antiques. Its research library also has many books about antiques. The society studies World, American, New England, Maine and local history. The members are dedicated and active, and take a real interest in current events. The museum also has a nice collection of tools. It also has a few household items once given by Ruby Emery. Delores Arnold of Buckfield has given the museum some old china from Little Concord Pond area. The society values your concerns during the present world crisis.

As there appears to be a shortage of flu shot serum, the flu shot clinic, originally scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 23, has finally been rescheduled to Wednesday, Nov. 21 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the West Paris Grange Hall, 4 Church Street. Muffins, juice, coffee, tea, donuts and apples will be served after you receive your shot. For more information, contact Bertha DeHaas at 674-3046.

Monday night at Franklin Grange 124, Bryant Pond, we held an open house program and invited the public. Part of the program was fire prevention with Jeff Inman, assistant fire chief, as speaker. The second part of the program was a special memorial program for the firemen, policemen, rescue workers and all the others who lost their lives in the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and Pentagon. The speaker for the memorial service was Clarence Allen of Oxford, a Purple Heart recipient from World War II. Dot Canwell whistled, Bertha DeHaas did an original poem, then we did a tableau around the altar, with Anna Swan as the Statue of Liberty and we sang "God Bless America."

Tuesday noon the "Greybeards" senior citizens met for luncheon and a party for Elsie Haynes, with 16 in attendance. A real good meal and time had by all.

Tuesday evening, Ring McKean of West American Legion and Auxiliary 151 met at the hall on Maple Street for their monthly supper and meeting.

Oh yes, be sure to go out and vote on Tuesday, Nov. 6. Your vote just might make the difference. It's a good thing to do anyway. If you don't have a ride to the polls, just let me know at 928-3096 and I will see that you get one.

From the District Exchange

The District Exchange Advisory Committee met recently at the Adult Learning Center and is asking for cooperation from the many people who make use of the Thrift Shop in being selective in what is donated. The Exchange Thrift Shop accepts only clean, in-season, clothing in wearable condition. Donations of items that are out-of-season, or in need of cleaning or repair, add greatly to the work of the volunteers and cost the Exchange much needed funds by adding to the trash removal. It is also important that donations be left at the Exchange, located at the Adult Learning Center on Philbrook Street in Bethel, only during open hours: Monday, 1 to 4 p.m.; Thursday, 4 to 6 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. All proceeds from the Exchange are used to provide help to people in need in the local area.

The Food Pantry, which is affiliated with the District Exchange, has a similar need for cooperation particularly in this season of food drives. It is imperative that donated food items be non-expired, in sealed and clean packaging and edible. Non-food items, such as shampoo, must be unopened and in clean packaging.

The Exchange would like to have additional volunteers to work in the thrift shop either on a regular shift, or as a substitute. If you can help, call the Exchange at 824-4090, or contact a member of the Advisory Committee including Freda Davis, Gwyneth Bohr, Cathy Newell, Susan Gordon, Brendon Bass, Kim and Fran Shannon, Carol McMullan, Mary Risko, Sylvia Dunham, Sheila Head, Barbara Mahler, Jane Hosterman, Kathy Goldberg, Yvonne Robinson, Darlene Pilgrim, or Maryvonne Wheeler.

The next meeting of the District Exchange Advisory Committee will be on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Adult Learning Center.

Wednesday evening, there was a potluck supper and birthday party for Pastor Linda Kimball, followed by the annual meeting at the Mission Congregational Church.

Saturday evening the West Paris Baptist Church held their annual meeting, also with a good attendance.

This is the time of year we "fall" back with our clocks on the last Saturday of October. It will be much darker earlier, so please all be on the alert for children walking, playing in the street or riding bikes or scooters. It is better to be safe than sorry.

Thursday, West Paris Grange 298 held its Agricultural Night with blacksmith and woodworker Frank Flanders as guest speaker. Russell and Peggy did an old-time skit and Dot Canwell whistled. It was a good program.

On last Friday afternoon, I went down to the Business Showcase, took a few pictures and talked to some of the entrepreneurs. As you first entered from the parking lot to the schoolyard, on your left you had a Yamaha display. Next to them you saw a display of both chain link and wooden fencing, wooden lawn swing and lawn furniture.

On your right, David O. Whittier, the lawyer, and his able crew were set up in a fifth-wheel trailer, decorated with flags. They would do your will while you waited for $50.

Across from them was Big Mike's Barbecue Sandwich stand featuring both barbecue pork and chicken served with potato salad, coleslaw or baked beans. Next to them, the Rotary Club set up their hamburger and hot dog cookers. One took these inside and also had potato salad, coleslaw, tossed salad and dessert. We could either eat inside or outside. As the wind had come up really chilly, most of us opted to eat inside in the school cafeteria.

To the right of the entrance door, Western Auto had an outside setup with another good display. The Business Showcase also had outside setups for Ver-Trans Handicapped Transportation Display, Norway Fire Department Fire Prevention trailer, Bessey Motors, Glamour Pools by Nancy, Christian Workshop and just outside the door was the Western Oxford Foothills Discovery Workshop Project. All kinds of handouts were given to all who wanted them. It was a very educational and informative display. I am sure we all learned a lot from this past weekend.

From the Bethel Rotary Club

This week Rotary was fortunate to have special guest Sister Michael Marie Laux from St. Theresa's School for Girls, Genkano, Kenya. Over the past year, the club has become acquainted with our new friend Sister Mike through our International project, where we contributed to the purchase of a solar generator and water heater for the St. Theresa's School. Bob and Cynthia Laux presented Sister Mike with a Paul Harris Fellow, a recognition made to a person who supports the ideals of Rotary through service and/or support.

The club also welcomed present District Governor Peter Johnson, past District Governor Elias Thomas, and future District Governor Tim Placey. The club was honored to have the presence of such gentlemen from the District. Each spoke about an aspect of Rotary Foundation — the history, funding, projects, and the support from Paul Harris recipients.

Rotary Day at the UN: Rotary International (RI) has always had a close relationship with the United Nations, dating back to 1945, when 49 Rotarians from 29 delegations participated in the UN Charter Conference in San Francisco. One delegate, Rotary International Vice President Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, went on to serve as president of the UN General Assembly, a post held by four other Rotarians. Today, RI has consultative status with UNICEF, UNESCO, World Health Organization and the UN Economic and Social Council. Through Rotary's PolioPlus Program, Rotarians have worked with WHO and UNICEF to deliver vaccine and provide volunteers for immunization centers. To commemorate this special relationship, Rotarians are invited to attend Rotary Day at the UN on Nov. 10.

Calendar items: October — Poinsettia Sale happening now; Nov. 17, Bridgton Rotary Club's 10th Anniversary Celebration; Nov. 25, Country Pancake Breakfast; Dec. 11, Senior Dinner.

BARACHOIS

The group "Barachois" plays its own style of Acadian traditional music. On Wednesday, Nov. 7 at 7 p.m., they bring their rhythmic, high-voltage musical style of Celtic influence from Prince Edward Island to Bethel's Crescent Park School as part of the Mahoosuc Arts Council's performance season. Albert, Helene, Louise and Chuck Arsenault have been fiddling, step dancing and singing since birth in their native province of Prince Edward Island, and more recently in Europe as well as across Canada. Their traditional Acadian music, on fiddles, guitar and keyboards, is complemented by what they call their "kitchen" instruments, everything from the wooden spoons, to the skillet, the cardboard box and the sousaphone. Step dancing sitting down, standing up, step dancing while playing the fiddle, individually or as a foursome, the group keeps it up all through the performance, naturally, gracefully and easily. Even though the songs are all in French, this is never a problem for non-French speakers. Sometimes one of the group explains the "plot" or else the message gets across anyway, in one hilarious way or another. Tickets are $4 for students and $6 for adults and are available at the Big Apple on Railroad Street in Bethel, at the door, or for ticket reservations call the Mahoosuc Arts Council office at 824-3575.

size is $22. Phase 1 orders taken by Nov. 20 will be available for delivery Nov. 23 to 25. Place your order with any Bethel Rotarian or call Cynthia at 824-4500 or Dawna at 336-9050. Proceeds from this sale support the Bethel Rotary's many community projects.

The Bethel Rotary Club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Alliance Church.

From the

Telstar Alumni Association

The Telstar Alumni Association held its annual Halloween Dance at the Locke Mills Legion Hall on Saturday, Oct. 27, with a very good attendance. The attendees danced to the music of The Impalas, a golden oldies rock and roll band. Many people arrived in costume and participated in the costume contest held during the evening. The competition was tough, but judges Joan and Bill Roberts, Jeri Greenwell and Penny Allen sorted through the assortment of costumes that get better every year, and this year's were exceptional, making decisions difficult.

Prize winners were as follows: Bruce Farrar, scariest; Bill Wight, most original; Rosie Cross, funniest; Bethany Lyons and Gerald Emmons, best couple; Tracy Hart and Shelly James, Ronnie and Sally Smith, judges choice.

Many thanks to all who donated prizes, including Matterhorn, B.I.G. Adventure, Bethel Inn, Sunday River Cross Country Center, Sunday River Ski Resort, Sunday River Brewing Company/Mooses Tale and Maine Line Products.

Thanks to Maine Line Products for selling tickets, to Ruel and Maureen Swain for pumpkins and cornstubs for decorations and to Leah Deegan for her help at the dance. Thanks to Telstar Alumni members and friends for all their help in putting on another successful dance. We couldn't do it without you.

Brewster 5, Gould 3; Oct. 24—Emmett Donovan scored twice for Gould, and Matt Billings added one goal in a loss to Brewster Academy last Wednesday. Boys' High School J.V.B. Soccer

Hebron 5, Gould 2; Oct. 24—The JVB team lost their season finale against Hebron last Wednesday. It was a hard-fought game in the rain. Gould took a 2-0 lead early on with inspired play and goals by Si Woo Lee and Asa Bearse. It appeared the team had a good chance to hold on, as we headed to halftime with a 2-1 lead. However, the team hit the post twice on penalty kicks, and Hebron responded with heavy pressure on freshman goalie Stefan Bettaglio. Both teams played an extremely physical game to the end. Gould JVB finishes its season with a 2-5-1 record—coach Tyler Redmond
